CAPE COD IS JUST OUTSIDE OUR WINDOW

Not only just the part you can see from here—but ALL of Cape Cod. For it's our business to advise those interested in buying property on locations, land values, taxes, schools and to help them make contacts with real estate brokers, builders and contractors.

This can save many hours of YOUR time and help you get started in the direction you wish to take.

And, of course, it's our business to place mortgages — designed to meet your needs.

ABOUT THE COVER

Title suggestion: "Bird watches bird-watcher busy watching—boy!"

Nature lovers from countless states come to Eastham to see its scenery, its flora, fauna—and perhaps its lifeguards?

The feminine beauty who modelled for this year's cover is one of Eastham's many lovely younger ladies. Eastham's watercolorist and cover artist, Harold White, says the identity of this attractive Miss Eastham is difficult to hide. She has helped her town so frequently by posing for these covers that you should recognize her by now. Do you?

The Cape Cod Visitor Center

Located just off Highway 6 on the hillside overlooking beautiful Salt Pond, the Cape Cod Visitor Center serves as the principal orientation and information center for Cape Cod National Seashore.

The lobby features a large relief map of Outer Cape Cod with significant places of interest within the National Seashore located on the map. An uniformed employee is on duty in the lobby to provide information, maps and free information folders. Selected books on Cape history and natural history are for sale. A schedule of interpretive activities within the National Seashore also is available here. Guided walks, evening talks, self-guided nature trails are offered to acquaint visitors with the human and natural history of Cape Cod National Seashore.

Slide programs or motion pictures are presented each half hour in the visitor center auditorium. In inclement weather, during the summer season, evening programs which are normally scheduled for the outdoor amphitheater will be given in this auditorium.

A museum in the other wing of the visitor center contains exhibits covering natural history, history, Indian life, whaling, fishing and farm life on Cape Cod.

Visitors are cordially invited to see the exhibits and attend the programs offered without charge by the National Park Service.

The center is open daily.

EASTHAM'S BEACHES ARE RENOWNED AND HELP MAKE YOUR STAY HERE A DELIGHT YOU'LL ALWAYS REMEMBER

Eastham's famous beaches both bay and ocean, are never more than a few minutes away no matter where you stay here. Nauset or the Great Beach extends for over five miles along the Atlantic Ocean in Eastham. Its broad sands play host to thousands yet it is never crowded for leisurely strolls or, between dips, for relaxation to the tune of the surf's steady orchestration.

There's beach play and healthful exercise aplenty and Nauset Beach is ideal for all bathers at low tide. But parents of very young children may prefer the warmer and generally shallower bathing available at high tide at the many public beaches along Eastham's Cape Cod Bay shore.

Clear, fresh water ponds, too, offer unexcelled bathing when you prefer a change from salt and surf.

THE FISHERMAN'S PLAYERS

For an exciting evening of theatre, coffee 'n' conversation at the
EASTHAM METHODIST CHURCH

Wellfleet 349-2202 for reservations

Presenting from June through August two plays of social significance at two locations, the Eastham and Wellfleet Methodist churches. These plays, performed by a highly trained cast of professional actors, will run in repertory throughout the summer. Wednesdays through Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. Coffee will be served after the performances in the coffeehouse where audiences can meet the actors and director.

A MODERN FAUST

A modern adaptation of Goethe's FAUST which speaks with all its power and poignancy to modern man's predicament. The beauty of the poetry, and the depth of thought have been artistically and beautifully preserved and enhanced in this adaptation by Richard D. Waters, yet it rings with all the excitement and emotion encompassed in the most powerful of plays.

THE PLIGHT OF THE GREEN MAN

A searing, soul-tearing experience that leaves you emotionally naked before your own judgement. An experience in theatre that you will never forget, and one which everyone will be talking about for a long time to come. An original play by Richard D. Waters that is on the way up!

CRITICS ARE SAYING:

"The Fisherman's Players . . . a strange crew, and pretty close to fascinating . . . really. Richard D. Waters has hitched a theatrical background with a pastor's pulpit and emerged with a promising talent that Cape patrons find refreshing and enjoyable."

Frank Fallacci, Boston Herald

"The Fisherman's Players, a newly formed, but expert drama group."

Eva Dane, Cape Cod Standard-Times

SHOWING DATES:

Faust—two week run, Wednesdays through Saturdays, June 23 - July 3, then continuing the remainder of the summer on Wednesdays and Thursdays thru August 26. Eastham Methodist Church at 8:30 p.m.

The Plight of The Green Man—two week run, Wednesdays thru Saturdays, July 7-17, then continuing thru the remainder of the summer on Fridays and Saturdays through August 28. Wellfleet Methodist Church—8:30 p.m.

For Fishing At Its Best, Fish In Eastham

During the summer the striped bass is king of salt water game fish in Cape Cod waters and Eastham's striper fishing is hard to beat. Surf casting all along the tides at Nauset Beach lures the experienced and the novice to try for the "big ones." And charter sport fishing boats, many skippered by Eastham men, will take you from Rock Harbor in quest of stripers offshore in the Bay.

Bluefish entice the angler too and are caught in both surf and bay in season. Flounder, tautog and a number of other good eating bottom fish make most any fishing trip from Eastham's shores something to recall happily.

Surfcasting from Eastham's broad beaches is a sport equally thrilling to expert or novice.

Eastham's Town Cove is an excellent spot for flounder and plaice fish and trolling for striped bass here offers additional thrills. There are several boat liveries on the Cove shore so fishing can be fun for all the family.

Target Ship In Bay Serves A Good Purpose

This target ship in Cape Cod Bay was a victory ship named General James E. Longstreet. Towed to its present position early in World War II, it rests on the bottom of the Bay and is used for target practice by U.S. Air Force planes stationed at nearby air fields. Light caliber ammunition as well as rockets and practice bombs are used to train the plane crews. When towed into position the ship was new but incomplete and had no engines.

The Windmill with its sails set in a stiff breeze can still grind corn at Windmill Park in Eastham Center. A Town Miller is in attendance to explain the mill and its history through the warm weather.

SHELLFISHING

The shellfish (clams, oysters, quahogs and others) are not so plentiful now as in years gone by. But the Town of Eastham does plant seed quahogs in Salt Pond and here on a Sunday a pailfull dug at low tide will provide an interesting activity and delicious eating.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY, INC.

The Eastham Historical Society was founded and incorporated in 1963 by a group of interested residents. It now has a membership of nearly 300 both resident and non-resident.

The object of the society is to create and foster an interest in the Town of Eastham, to promote historical research, to collect and preserve documents and to provide for their proper custody.

An urgent project is NOW in progress, to raise $10,000.00 to buy and restore Eastham's remaining one room central school house with approximately eight-tenths of an acre, built about 1869, pictured above, and located opposite the Cape Cod National Seashore Visitor Center. Your contribution will be gratefully received, and checks can be sent to the Society at P.O. Box 338, Eastham, Mass. 02642.

Suitable gifts will be welcomed by the society, some have been received, but many more are necessary, before the proposed museum can be established, either in the Eastham Public Library building or the Old Schoolhouse, hopefully by the summer of 1966. Gifts may be left at the Library, or Frederick H. Jewell, Curator, will gladly arrange to pick them up.

Apart from the museum and lectures from time to time, the Society has erected signs in the old cemeteries; takes an interest in their care and upkeep; and other worthy historical projects will be given consideration.

The membership fee is $1 a year for adults; 50 cents for children; and is open to all persons interested in Eastham. Application for membership can be sent to: Mrs. E. E. Kattwinkel, Secretary, P.O. Box 338, Eastham, Cape Cod, Massachusetts 02642.

Historical Notes

by Howard

THESE HOUSES ARE

Much has been written about old houses, and much more can be written, especially about houses of old Eastham. Driving along the highways and by-ways of Eastham, we see dates: 1730, 1741, 1750, 1783, on signs, on chimneys, over doorways. Looking at these old houses we wonder; who were the

THE COLE-LAWTON HOUSE

This three-quarter Cape house was the home of at least three (possibly more) generations of Coles. The first record about this house was found in town records; "In 1799 Seth Knowles and others obtained liberty of the town to dig a canal from Herring Pond, across the road near Timothy Cole's into Great Meadow River for the purpose of letting in herring." This same year, considerable investments were being made in the manufacture of salt. In 1826 Timothy Cole owned the second largest Salt Works in the Town. From the earliest U.S. Government topographical maps, we find that these Salt Works, vats, mills, etc., extend westward from the house.

CAPT. EDWARD PENNIMAN HOUSE

One of the arctic whaling Captains, who attained special prominence was Captain Edward Penniman. In 1842, when eleven years of age he first went to sea aboard a fishing schooner. In 1860 he took command of the bark Minerva. It was during his command of this vessel near the end of the Civil War, that he narrowly escaped encounter with the Confederate Cruiser Shenandoah, his ship being the special object of the cruiser's search. In 1868 he engaged in business in Chicago, where he spent the winters of four years, and his summers in Eastham. During these summers he was overseeing the building and landscaping of his residence, where he later retired and spent his remaining years. He lived in kindness and firmness, respected by all who knew him.

people, what were they like, how did they live, what hardships or happiness, success or sorrows. What did they do, those who made these houses their homes? Pictured on these pages are four houses. The half, the three-quarter, the full Cape, and a sea captain's house.

THE OLD CROSBY TAVERN

During the War of 1812, all communications by water with Boston and other commercial cities were cut off except in small boats running round by the shore, and that with much danger of capture and imprisonment by the British. An incident connected with the history of this town and this house, shows that Captain Matthew H. Mayo, accompanied by Captain Winslow L. Knowles, left Eastham with grain for Boston. On the return trip they were captured by the British. Capt. Knowles was sent to Boston for ransom; Capt. Mayo was detained aboard. After two days the schooner was overtaken by a severe nor'west wind and Capt. Mayo advised them to make anchor where he knew of bad holding ground. The schooner soon grounded on the flats of Eastham. The men not realizing their precarious position soon found themselves in the same situation as Capt. Mayo. The Eastham Militia took possession of the vessel and the crew was marched to the Crosby Tavern and there placed under guard.

THE HIGGINS-YOUNG HALF-HOUSE

This Cape half-house with a small ell kitchen, was built approximately in 1835 by Ephraim Higgins (son of Elkanah jr.) a direct descendant of Richard, one of the original settlers of Eastham, in 1644. Ephraim and his wife Deborah had the house built on about 2½ acres of upland and marsh which went to Rock Harbor Creek. The house was built with wide boards from Salt Works, which were quite abundant in that area at the time. When Ephraim and Deborah moved to Brewster, in 1857 the house was sold to their only son Orien, and his wife Eliza. Although Orien was not born in this house, four of his brothers and sisters were, as well as ten of his eleven children. Orien was a mariner, following the sea well over 50 years, until his death in 1910.
